YELLOW REPORT OF M. W. A. AFFAIR

DISPATCH FROM SIOUX CITY MIS-REPRESENTS THE FACTS.

BANKER BORT IS NOT SUE

Iowa Bank's Failure Involving Funds of Modern Woodmen, Before the Public Again.

A. N. Bort, of Beloit, head banker of the Modern Woodmen of America, is considerably put out by a dispatch concerning the affairs of the Woodmen sent out from Sioux City, Iowa, last night. The dispatch misrepresents the case in hand. The dispatch implies that the M. W. A. is out $100,000 by the bank's failure. The facts are the administrator will pay a large portion of the bank's indebtedness and if he does not, Mr. Bort believes the heads taken to insure the Woodmen are good. Furthermore, Mr. Bort knows nothing of the suit alleged to have been instituted against him.

The dispatch in question was published in the Morning Star Sunday, and is as follows:

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 6.—Another chapter has been added to the extensive litigation in the United States court involving the loss of $100,000 of the Modern Woodmen of America as a deposit in the bank of E. H. McCutcheon & Co., of Holstein, Iowa, when the sureties on the banking firm's indemnity bond of $200,000 sued A. N. Bort, of Beloit, Wis., head banker for the Woodmen, for $100,000 damages for the alleged wrongful detention of the bond.

The claim is set up in an amendment to the answer of the bank's bondsmen, which was filed by E. H. Hubbard, of Hubbard & Burgess, in the office of J. H. Bolton, deputy clerk of the federal court. The bondsmen for the bank declare the bond held by Mr. Bort to indemnify the Woodmen for the loss of any deposit was never legally executed and delivered to Bort by the bondsmen, and the sureties are therefore not in any manner bound thereby, and that the bond is wholly invalid. The bondsmen alleged that the bank's owners of the bond and are entitled to its possession. They assert that it was obtained through misrepresentation and fraud in that it was stated to each of the defendants in order to procure their signatures that certain other names of responsible citizens were to be procured on the bond before it would become effective, when in fact those signatures were not procured.

It is alleged the actual value of the bond is only $200,000, although its face value is $200,000. The court is asked to give a judgment in favor of the bondsmen for the possession of the bond and for $100,000 damages for the alleged wrongful detention thereof.

A. N. Bort, head banker, and the Woodmen report their claim for a deposit of $100,000 lost by the closing of the bank, subsequent to the death of E. H. McCutcheon last January. In another pleading filed in the United States court, this is the equity action in which the bondsmen for the bank sued for the cancellation of the bond. It was filed soon after the original suit was instituted by the Woodmen to recover for its alleged loss of deposit.

The Woodmen and Mr. Bort answer, submitting a cross complaint to the petition of the bondsmen, denying that the bond was procured through any misrepresentation and denying that its delivery to Mr. Bort was contrary to any understanding or agreement with the bondsmen.

Mr. Bort and the Woodmen urge their claim for judgment for $100,000, with accrued interest on the deposit in their cross complaint.

OLIVE LODGE ENJOYED A PLEASANT DANCING PARTY

At West Side Odd Fellows' Hall Last Evening. T. Give a Series.

Seventy couples attended the dance given by Olive Lodge No. 27, Degree of Honor, A. O. U. W., at West Side Odd Fellows' hall last evening. Baldwin & Rehfeld's orchestra furnished the music and a delightful time was enjoyed by all. A series of parties, one each month, is to be given during the fall and winter.

A LETTER TO OUR READERS

53 Cottage St., Melrose, Mass.

Dear Sir: Jan. 11th, 1904. "Ever since I was in the army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time."

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water today and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

"I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers I am."

Very truly yours,
I. C. RICHARDSON.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, sent absolutely free by mail, also a book telling all about Swamp-Root. If you already own a bottle, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at the drug stores everywhere. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Elmhurst, N. Y., on every bottle.

ed with health, and the nights are cool and restful. If you visit this region once, you will go there again. An answer to almost any question in regard to the Adirondacks will be found in No. 20 of the "Four-Track Series," "The Adirondacks and How to Reach Them," sent free on receipt of a 2-cent stamp, by George H. Daniels, General Passenger Agent, Grand Central Station, New York.

RAILWAY REPORTS ON IMPROVEMENTS

Annual Pamphlet of the Northwestern Road, Reports on Year's Work.

The pamphlet report of the Chicago & North-Western system for the year ended June 30 has just been issued. The company has arranged 1.6 miles of track elevation in Milwaukee and will commence as soon as the city completes arrangement with the government for the Chicago river, it will finish the year depressing its tracks for two miles in Milwaukee, eliminating eight grade crossings of streets.

During the last fiscal year the land department sold 72,254 acres of land and 1,837 town lots for the sum of $1,192,511. These tracts were located in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan. For the construction of new lines, side tracks, track-elevation and depressions, shops, and additional equipment, there was spent during the year $3,124,760.

Preparatory to the execution of the track elevation on the South side, Milwaukee, the company has purchased a strip of land adjoining its right-of-way, and extending to the river dock line from Lincoln avenue southward, a distance of 1,742 feet, on which to construct a freight station and team yard to serve this section of the city.

In connection with the improvement work in Milwaukee there is under construction a third track, which will extend from the Wisconsin street depot through the depression to Lake Shore Junction, where the Ashland division joins the Wisconsin division, a distance of 3.47 miles. Both of these pieces of work will be completed this year and will relieve the company of the difficulties heretofore experienced in entering and leaving the city on the north.

During the year 4,066,149,935 tons of freight were carried one mile by the company. The total number of passengers carried one mile aggregated 645,075,111, exceeding the previous year's number of passengers carried by 42,280,835. The balance sheets show preferred and common stock outstanding to the amount of $73,073,420. The funded debt is $162,220,800; the sinking fund is $509,549; the income balance from last year was $14,015,970. The total mileage of the road is 10,048, and its equipment includes 1,037 locomotives and 529,749 cars of all kinds.

The total earnings of the year were $63,334,633, an increase of $2,095,492 over the previous year. The passenger traffic earnings were $13,022,708, an increase of $865,711, and from freight the earnings amounted to $37,251,638, an increase of $1,443,531.

The question of abolishing Sunday excursion trains will be discussed at a meeting tomorrow of the executive committee of the Western Passenger association. This kind of traffic has gradually grown to an extent which many companies regret. Among the roads which would like to abolish the system are the North-Western, Santa Fe, Burlington, and Illinois Central.

The Illinois Central had 19 per cent of the grain traffic from the west to Chicago last week, the Burlington, 18 per cent; Rock Island, 15 per cent; Santa Fe, 13 per cent; Alton, 10 per cent; St. Paul, 8 per cent; Eastern Illinois, 6 per cent; Wabash, 5 per cent, and the North-Western, 4 per cent.

PALMISTS IN BAD ODOR WITH POLICE

Two Engage in Pugilistic Encounter and Two More Stop Here in Flight From Waukegan.

George Woods of Chicago, palmist, has been arrested on complaint of his partner named "Marco," as the result of a pugilistic encounter which is alleged to have occurred at their temporary living quarters on Dodge street. The pair have been running an "Oriental temple" in the Days block. Waukegan officials requested Officer Brown yesterday to keep a sharp lookout for a palmist and a woman who were alleged to have departed from that city with a large sum of money secured under false pretenses and considerable jewelry. Officer Fanning met a couple answering to their descriptions in front of the Ottoman house before daylight yesterday. They asked about the next train to Chicago and are believed to have taken the 4:50 passenger for Chicago.

EXIT FROM THIS WORLD--SIX DOGS

First Execution at the City Pound
Took Place Yesterday—An Other Soon.

Two bulldogs, a shepherd, and three mongrels were ushered into dog eternity with a double barreled shot-gun at the city pound yesterday. Their "movable faces" at the barrel windows and the appealing glances which fall to move the dread executioner from his full design were all very sad, of course, but $2 worth of mankind sympathy was not to be found in all Janesville. There are some more canines awaiting their destined hour and those who grieve have their opportunity to pay and adopt. Dog Catcher Drafahl is not getting rich but deserves great credit for ridding the city of beasts whose owners are irresponsible.

MANY PEARLS IN THE ROCK RIVER

BELOIT PEOPLE FIND VALUABLE
JEWELS IN RIVER BOTTOM.

WATER LOWERED ABOVE DAM

Fear of Malaria Also Causes Much
Excitement—Why Not Find Pearls
Near Janesville?

Rock river may become the scene of future pearl fisheries. Pearls of gigantic size may be named after Janesville or Beloit, the same as the great Kohinoor of England is named. Tiffany may be tempted to open a purloining agency here to buy from the fishers the precious jewels. It is stories which drift up from Beloit are true. Men who have fished for bullheads and carp off the bridges may turn their attention to clam fishing and become millionaires in a short time. Rock river has developed a new industry—pearl fishing.

Down at Beloit, the story goes, pearls ranging in price from two dollars to sixty have been found by ambitious young men who have searched the river bottom for clams. The owners of the Beloit dam are drawing off the water in order to erect a new dam. In so doing they have exposed a large portion of the river bed and on this bed it is claimed that pearls are being found in great numbers.

Like Bullets
Henry Love of Beloit is said to have been one of the fortunate ones and has secured specimens that are very valuable. It is also reported at Beloit that several parties who have been in communication with Tiffany & Co. of New York regarding the sale of their finds and have been offered goodly prices. If pearls are to be found in the clams about Beloit, why not in Janesville? The water is low now and in several places the river bottom is exposed. Clams seem to like a muddy bottom to lie in, and should be easily reached in low water by clam fishers who can, in places, almost walk across the river.

Search River
The draining of the river bed at Beloit made necessary by the work at the dam has left a large area of the old banks exposed and there are many clams high and dry in the silty mud. All up and down the river, people can be seen wading about and opening these shells. It is not very pleasant work, but the searchers are rewarded often by rich finds.

Malaria
The question has been raised as to the effect the exposed river banks will have on the health of Beloit. One physician said yesterday that it would surely create malaria and he said that he already had a couple of cases. There is little growth along the banks to decay, but the drying out is sure to cause annoyance. The custom of the pearl hunters of throwing the opened clams down where they will decay will add to the danger. These might just as well be thrown into the river again, where they will float away and be lost sight of.

MILWAUKEE NEWS
TELLS A STORY

Repeats Plans of La Follette Republicans in Regard to Rock County.

In discussing the political situation throughout the state the Milwaukee Daily News prints the following in a dispatch dated Madison, regarding the situation in Rock county and the so-called fight against Senator Whitehead by the radical element of the party:

"On the radical side of the fence one of the bitterest fights which is being put up against any legislative candidate is being made against Senator John M. Whitehead of Rock county. In the Rock county district the radical leaders are openly claiming that Senator Whitehead will not get a single radical vote in this district and they declare that his defeat is as good as accomplished already. It can, however, be said that Senator Whitehead is very popular with the rank and file of the voters of the district and the radicals may find that their bold no matter how well engineered has not been thoroughly effective when the votes come to be counted. Of course that is a matter, however, on which nothing definite can be said until the results at the polls are known. Senator Hagemaster, who has been nominated for the state senate in the Brown county district, is another candidate against whom the radicals are making an almost house to house campaign and they declare also that they expect their fight in that district will be the means of retiring Senator Hagemaster from politics. The senator is however a good campaigner in his own peculiar way and the reports from Brown county are to the effect that he does not intend to allow any grass to grow under his feet between now and election day."

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, September 8, 1864.—Summary.—The fine rain of the last two days has given place to weather of the temperature of summer. Fall food for stock will be immensely benefited by such a happy blending of sun and shower.

Our Quota Full.—We learn from the Provost Marshal that our quota of Rock county in the aggregate, is already more than full, although there may be two or three towns which are still lacking a few men. As no delinquent sub-district is benefited by the over plus of any other, it will be the part of wisdom for any such to see to it that there is no deficiency in the number required of them, as they will certainly have to stand the draft if they do not fill up.

Bold Robbery.—Two robbers, probably Southern rebels, entered the house of Henry Dow, near Providence, Clark county, Indiana, the other night and demanded his money. He denied having any, but was told that he had both gold and greenbacks, and must give it up. He still denied, whereupon they took him out and hung him until nearly dead, when he told them where the money was. They obtained $500 in gold, $200 in silver and $400 in greenbacks. A discharged soldier sleeping up stairs and conflagration they robbed of $1.50 when they left.

Pictures.—Go to Clark's. If you want good pictures.

Soda Water.—Gold sparkling, and delicious at the Philadelphia drug store.

Editors of the Gazette.—The gentleman Sanborn which you spoke of in your paper of last week, tried to leave this place at the time of the small hours, last Monday morning, but as he was taking off some of our world-beaters he was detained by Constable Bassler. On Monday he was seen in company with one of our young ladies driving south towards Dixie—or Belvidere. The lady returned in good time without the musician and it is safe to say that ere this he has landed in Vermont. The would-be soldiers were taken to Delavan. I understood, by one of our grain buyers—as the crops were poor this year he was driven to this, being a man of business turn, I firmly believe. Well, if the boys go into the army all right as the town of Clinton is supposed to be full on all calls. The last call was nearly one-third filled by individuals having furnished substitutes. Yours for the cause, Union.

Home Health Club

By DAVID H. REEDER, D.D., M.D.

In a former lecture I treated the physiological effect of cold applications with special reference to the results on the nervous system. The various reactions that were possible to the viscera from applying cold water to the skin are referred to, as well as the effect and reaction upon the circulatory system. The effects that were produced by direct application of cold to the brain were briefly reviewed. I shall now more elaborately go into the details of nervous reflex action.

Because of the close inter-connection of the nerves of the skin with the nerve centers and ganglia controlling respiration and the circulation of the blood, short applications to induce cold to the neck and chest accelerates or increases the pulse action and breathing at first, but these effects are directly changed when the reaction sets in. The immersion of one hand in cold water I have pointed out, results in the cooling and shrinkage of the other hand. When both hands are immersed the peculiar result of the contracting of the blood vessels of the brain and the mucous membranes of the nose are produced. Where there is a sluggishness of the mind it may be overcome in many cases by this simple physiological treatment. A cold foot bath will check the flow of blood to the organs of the pelvic region. But of course if the bath is a short one it inevitably reaction sets in, and the reverse is the case. Thus in cases where it is desirable to check the hemorrhage the bath should be prolonged.

Almost everyone has at some time suffered with bleeding at the nose. This is, of course, usually a very trivial matter, and yet the hemorrhage has in some cases lasted so long and been so profuse that it has become a serious matter. There are a thousand and one devices for checking it, but one of the simplest is to apply cold water to the upper spine, just a little above the shoulder blades. There is an old home remedy which tells you to apply cold metal to this region, and it has often proved beneficial, as no doubt many of my readers have discovered. The effect is produced by the nervous action on the blood vessels of the mucous membrane of the nose, and can better be produced by the use of cold water than by the use of metal. A very hot foot bath, as hot as the person can stand, will produce the same effect. Epistaxis is the scientific name for nose bleed, and I should like to hear from my readers regarding the result of the trial of these simple expedients. To get right effect the application of cold must be continued for some time, as a brief application would bring on a reaction that would probably tend to increase the hemorrhage.

The local surface areas that effect the different organs when stimulated by cold, are as follows: The back, below the shoulder blades, and the area just over the stomach in front, when stimulated by cold effect the blood vessels and the stomach. The feet and hollow of the back, effect the kidneys when so stimulated. The bowels and the bladder are effected by cold applications to the feet and abdomen, the liver by applications to the right chest, especially the lower part, the spleen by applications to the lower left chest, the lungs, by applications to the chest and to a corresponding position on the back, while the brain is effected by these applications on the head, hands, feet, neck and face. Of course, the same rule applies in regard to the reaction on all of these organs, and if the applications are long continued, the effect is depressing, while if it is of but short duration, the reaction is stimulating. There are some quite noticeable effects on the blood, made by changes in temperature. For instance, the number of corpuscles is greatly increased with cold applications. This is true of the white corpuscles as well as of the red ones. Some of the other changes in blood are as follows: The water in blood is in many cases fully as efficient, but the results are not very definitely known.

As I have pointed out before, by far the greater part of the effects of the use of cold water are due to the reaction. Now if one wishes to cool the body without getting these reactions, tepid or cool water should be used. Where the water is not so cold it gradually withdraws the heat from the body, without the nervous excitement and reflex action.

I have so far written almost entirely on the effects of cold water. But hot water is in many cases fully as efficient. There is a greater variety of means for applying heat to the surface of the body than is the case with cold, this being due to the fact that water vaporized steam, hot air, the radiation from an incandescent body and water offer the best means for applying heat, but the results are quite different when the different media are used. For instance, a full bath in water with a temperature of 120 degrees is unendurable, although a foot or hand bath at this temperature is not uncomfortable. The temperature may be increased 25 degrees above this if the heat is applied through steam. The ordinary Turkish bath is at the temperature of 100 degrees to 130 degrees, and may be increased above this. The ability to withstand extreme heat can be cultivated, especially over small areas on the surface of the body, and the hand alone can be immersed in very much hotter water than can the entire body. A temperature of 104 degrees at an ordinary bath is as hot as most people can endure. I will not here dwell upon the effects of dry heat or upon the heat from incandescent bodies, as the matter of light in the latter case is very closely associated with heat. If you will bear in mind the fact that freckles are produced almost entirely by the violet rays in ordinary sunlight, you will see what remarkable results may be produced by the use of light alone. It is because of these facts that so many naturopaths are using lights in their method of treatment.

Asthma Can Be Cured

The statement of Mr. J. F. Homan, 20 E. Adams St., Chicago, proves that the worst cases of Asthma in the world are not only relieved, but are readily cured by Dr. Schiffmann's Asthma Cure. He says: "Asthma kept me in terrible misery for ten years until I used your Asthma Cure. After the first trial I was a changed man. I went to sleep that night and awoke next day much relieved and I have gotten entirely over the Asthma. It is now nine years since I was cured."

Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00. Send 2c stamp to Dr. R. Schiffmann, Box 804 St. Paul, Minn., for a free trial package.

A FEW OPINIONS OF SEVEN BARKS

Extracts from Original Letters:

"I had impaired blood and tetter. Four medicine cured me. I then took five bottles of Seven Barks and was cured. Five bottles of Seven Barks entirely cured me."—Robt. Downs, Laura Furnace, Ky.

"We write to inform you of a miraculous cure effected in our neighborhood. William Woodell had a very bad leg—almost mortified. Ten doctors failed to cure. Eight bottles of your Seven Barks cured him. You can use our names as witnesses."—J. S. Wall, E. C. Barnes, T. A. Pounds, J. T. Pools, Archer Lodge, N. C.

"I have not had a doctor in my family since I have been using your medicine (Seven Barks)."—Annie Hillis, Pottsville, Pa.

"Seven Barks is good for more diseases than its name. It is better than any other medicine. It cures the stomach and bowels. It cures the liver and gall bladder. It cures the lungs and throat. It cures the kidneys and bladder. It cures the skin and scalp. It cures the nerves and brain. It cures the blood and circulation. It cures the system and the whole body. VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 24, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected said John C. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Wenzel as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

THE OPEN SHOP.

The collapse of the Chicago strike and the recognition of the open shop at the stock yards is in harmony with the trend of events in the industrial world. Manufacturers as well as business men discovered a year ago or more that the only way to meet organization was with organization, and so all over the land today organized labor is called upon to deal with organized industries.

There is nothing unfair about these conditions and labor has no occasion to complain. Much is said about the sacredness of contract, but the cold fact is that long time contracts are neither desirable or practical, as a rule, between employer and employee.

In almost every industry men work by the day or week. The length of service depends upon conditions. The man assumes the right to quit at any time when he can better his condition and the right is seldom questioned as employers recognize the fact that when a man is dissatisfied it is time for him to go.

The employer reserves the right to discharge when services are no longer needed, or when the work is not satisfactory. This is unwritten law and it has always governed in the industrial world and no amount of organization can change it.

Labor today is divided into two classes known as organized and unorganized. The great rank and file belong to the latter class and they claim the God-given right to work as they can find opportunity. This right is so generally recognized and so well established that it can neither be ignored nor set aside.

The weakness of organized labor is in the fact that this right is denied. The principle is wrong, and the intelligence of the American people will not submit to this kind of dictation.

Another weakness is in the disposition to perform as little work as possible in a given length of time. This is noticeable where men work by the piece and where the output is restricted.

In Beloit, under conditions which existed before the strike, two workmen were producing eight pieces of a certain machine a day. They were skillful mechanics and the work was performed without much effort, with plenty of time to spare.

When the open shop was established these same men, under the stimulus of a small premium for increased output, turned out 18 pieces the first day, and 22 the second, and the latter figure now represents a day's work in this department. Restriction of output kills ambition, destroys opportunity and makes of man a time serving machine.

There is one fact that labor of all kinds should recognize and that is, that the ability to produce depends on muscle plus brain. The man who works with the shovel may be just as faithful as the man who directs the work, and his employment is just as honorable, but he is competing with a larger class than the man at the front.

When times are good there is employment for all kinds of labor, but when times of depression come the class most largely effected is the unskilled class. The men who develop brain power by thought and who realize that it is possible to make their services indispensable, are the men who are retained and they are the men who are always in the line of promotion.

Organization will be helpful to labor in proportion to the wisdom exercised in its management. Men are not promoted in groups from the ranks of labor any more than they are from the ranks of military service. Individual merit alone is recognized and the stock of merit acquired by the individual is entirely dependent upon personal effort.

The open shop is the only shop where the individual workman can best serve his own interests, and the open shop is not antagonistic to organized labor, so long as individual rights are respected.

FRANCIS MURPHY'S OPINION.
Francis Murphy, the former gospel temperance worker, was interviewed the other day in Chicago, on the Bishop Potter saloon movement, and this is what he said:

"Bishop Potter's saloon is a movement to elevate the liquor selling business and therefore in the right direction. Bishop Potter is a good, sincere, courageous, intelligent man," said Francis Murphy, the well-known temperance advocate, at the Auditorium Annex yesterday. He is on his way from his home in California to the east.

"To ostracize the man who sells liquor is to demoralize the trade without helping temperance an iota," he continued. "We frown on the liquor seller and his children are persecuted at the schools. We should consider him a man and a brother, dine with him as Jesus Christ did with the publican. The man who sells liquor is not a pariah, but the man who will not speak to him is a pariah. Let us have done with phariseism and scribbling."

"Temperance is not prohibition, alcohol has its place in food economy. No man has the right to say to another that he shall not drink. Men are drinking less and less, abusing a good thing less and less. The law to be enforced is the self law the individual enforces. A man should say to another, 'Come, brother, you have had enough, more will not be good for you.' Moral suasion and the elevation of the liquor traffic is the solution."

"Purity in the manufacture of liquors should be required, just as it should be in the composition of foods and the like. If all drinks sold were bound to be up to a governmental standard of purity very much of the evil of drink would be lopped off. Purity is practical; prohibition is fanatical. These reformers, some of them, should first of all reform themselves."

Mr. Murphy will be roundly criticized by many good people for his candid statement of convictions. It should be remembered that Mr. Murphy is not only a temperance advocate, but his work is recognized as both practical and effective.

He possesses in rare degree the disposition and ability to recognize conditions as they exist and he has discovered from observation that the saloon is as much of a factor in American life as the church or the school.

There is nothing of the Carrie Nation or radical prohibition spirit about Mr. Murphy. He believes in the gospel of winning men from sin and the results of his work tell the story of its effectiveness.

Old Vermont with 34,000 republican majority comes to the front with the opening gun of the campaign. Other states will follow and when the engagement closes in November victory will be complete.

The state of Indiana would like to disown Eugene V. Debs. The business men of Terre Haute claim that he is a detriment to business. This is the Debs who was mixed up in the Chicago riots.

Grandpa Davis who wags the tail of the democratic national ticket, says that $50,000 is about all the fun he can see in the game, and the party is disappointed.

Mr. Bryan declines to waste any eloquence on the Egypt state. The silence of Judge Parker is thought by democratic managers to be more convincing.

The Bell Weaver may raise havoc with the cotton crop but it will have no effect on the Rock county beet crop. There are some things that a weaver refuses to tackle.

Times in the cotton mill districts are improving and 13,000 operatives have again found employment. The Fall River mills are still idle and strike conditions are unchanged.

Who ended the Chicago strike? Certainly not the packers or Donnelly. It sort of ended itself for lack of moral or numerical support.

The street car mirrors in New York were so attractive that the management had to remove them to prevent a blockade.

The prohibition vote of Vermont was less than 1,000, indicating that theoretical temperance reform is on the wane.

Keep your eye on the stars, and your feet on the ground and you will miss the last chance to win a mother-in-law.

Cold feet and a poor circulation always go together. Don't get cold feet before you are 75.

There's plenty of room at the top, but you can't get there in a balloon.

Don't worry. Give the other fellow a chance.

PRESS COMMENT.

Oshkosh Times: The butchers' strike has brought some men into prominence who probably were very good hog-stickers before that.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Nominee Peck believes there are enough bad boys in Wisconsin to help him win the election.

Chicago News: Any one going to Panama to make money now has the government's word for it that the most indispensable feature of his equipment is a return ticket.

Racine Journal: A strange story is in circulation to the effect that after this war is over Russia and Japan will form a close alliance for mutual purposes.

Chicago Tribune: By its pernicious activity Candidate Parker's dog succeeded the other day in bringing Rosemount into exceedingly bad odor.

Hudson Star-Times: La Follette's keynote: "The supreme court and everybody and everything else be damned if they do not agree with me."

Madison Journal: The La Follette men before the supreme court today played for delay. The bunch has never cared for the open.

Sheboygan Journal: Mr. Carnegie has repeatedly made the statement that he desires to do a poor man. And yet, with almost the same breath, he declines to visit the big fair at St. Louis.

Milwaukee News: If Gov. La Follette's "red devil" should scare the farmer's horses it will be nothing compared to the scare the governor will give the farmers when he pictures the dangers with which they are beset.

Winnebago Local: It seems kind of queer to a fellow that women folks go around out doors with nothing on their heads, appearing to be one hundred per cent. angel, but at a show or meeting of any kind they appear to be eighty per cent. hat and trimmings, nineteen per cent. wiggle and one per cent. angel.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Former United States Senator Washburn, of Minnesota, who arrived in New York yesterday from Europe, spreads the alarming information that the wheat crop is short in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Astonishing what you pick up on a trip to Europe.

La Crosse Chronicle: If the housewives would call them "my assistants" or the "right bower," instead of the "servant" or "kitchen maid," possibly it would not be so difficult to find "assistants" or "right bowers." Isn't it worth while to change names and make the experiment? If it works, think of the gladness it would carry to dependent homes.

Superior Telegram: The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune says that the celebrated Rocky Ford watermelons from Colorado sell cheaper at retail in Cincinnati than they do in Colorado. Perhaps the Colorado melons sold in Cincinnati are raised in Kentucky.

Newark News: When Johnny was a child they laughed at the ridiculous things he said. When he was a youth they laughed at his half baked opinions. When he was a man they laughed at his wisdom because they couldn't grasp it. When he was old they laughed at him for a crank. There is always some one to laugh and this is a jolly world.

Green Bay Gazette: Governor La Follette has ousted the state treasurer or elected by the people because he could furnish a bond of only $250,000, and put in his place a man not chosen by the people who puts up a bond of only $100,000. The rights of the people may not be as well safeguarded but then it must be remembered that the appointee was a La Follette adherent while the one elected by the people evidently was not.

Seranton Tribune: Elizabeth Banks, in the North American Review this month, says that if she were a painter and wished to depict on canvas the typical American wife, she should put a calico dress upon her, tie a gingham apron around her waist, and paint her with an intellectual face, all eager, searching—searching for dust. We should like to know how long Elizabeth would remain comfortable in a home where the dust was not searched for.

Expensive to Stop. The railroad train is the best illustration that has ever been found to typify continuous advertising. A local passenger train takes just about twice as long to cover a hundred miles as an express train. Some people think it travels more slowly, but there is little difference in the actual running speed. The time is lost in making stops, slowing down and getting under way again. For this reason spasmodic advertising consumes twice as much energy as continuous advertising. It may cost considerably to continue the campaign, but it costs more to stop for a season.—Printers' Ink.

AUTUMN WARBLERS.
The Chicago Chronicle is responsible for the following effusions:
It is Fall.

The haze is on the woodlands.
The hoboes on the hump,
And candidates in earnest
Are sprouting on the stump.
The haze you see that reaches far
Is from the bum campaign cigar.

The golden-rod is shining.
The thrasher softly hums
And soon the sports will stagger
Beneath chrysanthemum
As to the football fields they go.
To watch the sanguinary show.

The fuzz is on the peaches.
The corn is doing well.
And all the college youngsters
Are practicing to yell.
And soon the campus will be red
With gore the football players shed.

What He Learned.
A fellow once went to a night school
To learn how to read in the dark,
But he got stuck on his teacher
And all that he learned was to spark.

CAL STEWART FOR CONGRESS

DEMS NOMINATED KENOSHA MAN BY ACCLAMATION.

FAVORS PRIMARY ELECTION

But Not the Conglomeration of Legislative Imbecility Before People for Suffrage This Fall.

The democratic convention for the first congressional district was held at the city hall this afternoon. P. J. Mout was made chairman and O. A. Oestreicher, secretary. After the call had been read and the other preliminaries finished, the name of Calvin S. Stewart of Kenosha was placed in nomination for congressman to oppose the present republican incumbent of the office, H. A. Cooper of Racine.

Nomination Unanimous. The nomination was made by acclamation, no other name being presented to the convention. In a very forceful acceptance speech Mr. Stewart gave his personal approval of both the national and state democratic platforms. In addition to these he said he was in favor of an income tax, the public ownership of public utilities, and primary elections. He said however that he was not in favor of the conglomeration of legislative imbecility, gotten up by men who didn't believe in primary elections, which was before the people of the state for their suffrage at this time.

A Few Taps at Cooper. He said that he expected to make an active campaign of the district. Referring to Mr. Cooper he said that the latter was one of the smoothest diplomats in the United States congress. The ease with which he managed to evade placing himself on record on any question of moment was the admiration of even his enemies. He said that the democrats were going to see whether Mr. Cooper could remain on four sides of the same question at once, whether he could fight with the stalwart malden while he was simultaneously carrying on a vigorous flirtation with the half-breed lassie. Cooper, when he had been pinned down, according to the speaker, had voted against anti-trust and other legislation demanded by the people.

NARROW ESCAPE IN A BAD WRECK

J. C. Wilmarth Was on the Rock Island Train Wrecked Last Night.

J. C. Wilmarth telegraphed his wife this morning from Princeton, Illinois, that he had just emerged from a bad wreck on the Rock Island, but was all right. Mr. Wilmarth was called home to El Paso on business and left Chicago last night. Nothing is known of the wreck referred to beyond the following dispatch: Princeton, Ill., Sept. 8.—The Kansas City fast passenger train on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad was wrecked one-half mile east of Tiskilwa at 9:05 last night and over thirty persons were badly injured. Others are phoned under the wrecked passenger coaches and early this morning had not been rescued, and their condition is unknown. The passenger train collided with the rear end of a freight train that had broken in two. The engineer escaped injury and the fireman was seriously injured; half a dozen passenger cars were wrecked, and the people thrown in every direction, eight landing in a cornfield at one side of the track. Many of the injured have been taken to Tiskilwa and others to the hospital at La Salle. Physicians and nurses have been summoned from many of the surrounding towns. The full extent of the disaster will not be known for several hours.

WANT MORE SPACE FOR THE FLOWERS

West Side Firemen Are Enlarging Their Present Flower Garden and Lawn.

Though shrubs and flowers are growing in abundance and growing luxuriantly on the patch of ground north of the west side fire station, and morning glory and wild cucumber vines literally cover the sides of the buildings adjoining, the firemen desire to have a still larger garden. The land extending from the rear of the present cultivated spot to the shed on the next property has been spaded up and is now being manured and will, next summer, present as beautiful an appearance as that near the street. Some of the morning glory vines which are strung up the side of the station have grown to a height of over twenty feet and the castor bean plants are higher than the men's heads. Situated as it is the place is like an oasis in a desert.

LOCK-UP CELLS ARE FULL AGAIN

Number of Drunks in Various States of Consciousness Languish.

Ing There Today. Gus Kohenauffer, the Scandinavian who was arrested some time ago for imbibing the white light and delivering forensic flights on the front streets and who was released a short time ago on promise to leave the city, was again apprehended today. He had been acting queerly and certain residents of Spring Brook believed him to be insane. The man says that he came here from Dubuque, Michael Riley of Stoughton and four other drunks were incarcerated today, and two or three last evening.

SAYS THERE WAS ILLEGAL HUNTING

Farmers State That There Was Much Shooting a Week Before the Season.

Hunters who went out for prairie chickens the first day of September, when the season opened, claim that there has been a great deal of illegal shooting this year and base their views upon the statements of farmers on whose land they hunted. One man said: "No wonder that no birds were found in the coverts for the three farmers that I went to for permission to hunt said that there was little prospect of bagging any chickens for he thought the coverts were cleaned out, because somebody had hunted every day for a week before the season opened."

THE WEATHER.

SEWER WORK STILL AT A STANDSTILL

Contractor M. J. Benson Failed to Return From Chicago This Morning.

Contractor M. J. Benson failed to return from Chicago this morning, as expected, and work on the sewer excavations on South First street remained at a standstill. Strangely enough no one in the city knew the location of the courthouse sewer that was broken into yesterday—not even the man who built it. There was no record of it in the city's books and it was evidently built without any express authority. The storm sewer on the south side of the street is being removed as the new fifteen inch out for the public system will be used for this purpose alone after the 21 inch mains shall have been extended to Ravine street next year.

CAUGHT BY CUPID.

Chandler-Diedrick September 6th at the Rock Prairie United Presbyterian parsonage was performed by Rev. G. H. Huey the ceremony which united in marriage Mr. Carl F. Diedrick and Miss Jessie Chandler, both of Johnston. The groom is a son of Mr. Louis Diedrick and is an industrious young carpenter. The bride is the only daughter of the late George Chandler and Mrs. Ellen Chandler, and is one of Johnston Center's estimable young ladies. They will make their home in the Chandler residence in Johnston Center.

SHARP CONTESTS ARE IN PROSPECT

FOOTBALL TALK OF THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS.

JANESVILLE WILL BE READY

Local Team Will Have Something to Say When the Final Awards Are Handed Out.

The year 1904 promises to witness a spirited contest among the several high schools for the state for the interscholastic football championship. Reports from some of the medium sized cities reveal the fact that substantial business men are giving generous sums of money for the advancement of their football teams. It is conceded by educators well acquainted with the spirit and material existing in the different high schools of the state, that Eau Claire has a good chance for the championship. Last year, besides having won the championship, this team maintained the inevitable record of never having its goal line crossed by an adversary. In 1901 it was also champion of the state and in 1902 went down to defeat only before the Madison eleven. More than half the men that will play this fall at Eau Claire have had two or three years of experience and will undoubtedly hold their old positions. Negotiations are in progress for securing the services of one of the varsity's star men as a coach. Among these written to are Vanderboom, Abbot, Fogg and Juneau. Juneau, however, has accepted the position of head coach in the University of Colorado.

Local Prospects.

School has scarcely been in operation long enough this fall for the football enthusiasts to get in their work. Then, too, in hot weather football is not as popular as when the afternoon game and hot days are not conducive to putting men to their best efforts. Last year Janesville came within an ace of winning the championship. It played excellent ball all the autumn and Janesville people had reason to be proud of their team. Just what the conditions will be this fall is not yet known and cannot be estimated until the men get out to play.

Elsewhere.

Last year's season was spoiled largely through the existence of petty jealousies and clique antagonisms. This year a determined effort is being made to eliminate this. Very little football is being talked yet but there are evidences of the existence of a better school spirit than last year. The material is abundant and of high standard, the equal of any high school in the state, many say. Great activity among football enthusiasts at Ft. Atkinson is being carried on. The business men, as last year, will secure a competent coach and as nearly all the old men are back Ft. Atkinson will be one of the leaders in the race. Lake Geneva, too, had a strong team last fall and will probably make a good showing this season. Waukau is also making preparations for the capture of the championship. Principal C. C. Parlin, one of the authorities on the interscholastic board, is pushing the project energetically. Conditions in the Milwaukee high schools are always favorable for developing strong teams and the Cream city teams will undoubtedly put up a good fight. As far as training and numbers to draw from is concerned they have the advantage over other schools but for some reason the last three years they have not showed up well. Sturgeon Bay, Merrill, Tomah and possibly Oshkosh may send out winning teams, but at this stage of the season it is impossible to predict with any degree of accuracy the teams that will be in the front rank of competitors.

BELOIT WOODMEN WIN SECOND PRIZE

And Rockford Team Captures a Third in the Drills at St. Louis Exposition.

In the team prize drills of the Woodmen Foresters at the St. Louis exposition neighboring cities as well as Janesville have captured some of the prizes. There are three classes of teams, the first being known as the senior, the second as the junior, and the third as the pony. All former prize winners are in the senior class, the next best being in the junior, and so on. The results were as follows: Senior class—Joliet, Ill., first; Omaha, Neb., second; Rockford, Ill., third. Junior class—St. Paul, Minn., first; Beloit, Wis., second; Bloomington, Ill., third. Pony class—Denver, first; Janesville, second; Kennard, Neb., third.

Editing in Wyoming.

Editing a newspaper is a nice thing. If we publish jokes people say we are rattle brained. If we don't we are fossils. If we publish original matter they say we don't give them enough selections. If we give them selections they say we are too lazy to write. If we didn't go to church we are heathens. If we do go we are hypocrites. If we remain at the office we ought to be out looking for news items. If we go out then we are not attending to business. If we wear good clothes they say we have a pull. Now, what are we to do? Just as likely as not some one will say that we stole this from an exchange. So we did. It's from the Wyoming Derrick—Dillon, Wyoming, Doubleback.

Entertained Friend: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Isaac entertained about fourteen members of the Silver circle at their home Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. Byron Jones of Salt Lake City, Utah, who is spending a few days in the city visiting friends.

OBITUARY.

Geraldine Dixon Yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock the death angel entered the Cherry street home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dixon, claiming as its victim their eleven months old daughter, Geraldine Dixon. The child was ill but a brief period and the parents have the sympathy of many friends. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from St. Patrick's church. The interment was at Mt. Olivet cemetery.

The pallbearers were Patrick Connors, Chas. Connors, Francis Connors and Emmett Connors, all cousins of the deceased.

Harold Willard Billings Harold Willard Billings, aged six years two months and twelve days, died yesterday afternoon at five o'clock at the home of his parents, 202 Prairie avenue. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence and the interment will be at Oak Hill cemetery.

INTERURBA CAR RAN INTO A COW

On Curve Just Below Yost's Park at Half-Past Seven O'clock This Morning.

On the curve near Miles Fenn's road-house about half-past seven o'clock this morning the interurban car in charge of Motorman Durban ran into a cow which had strayed onto the tracks. On account of the fog which hung over the earth at that time the animal could not be seen until the car was almost upon it. It was then too late to stop and the unhappy bovine was caught by the tender and badly mangled. Two of its legs were broken and spectators who witnessed the accident soon put an end to the poor beast's misery.

Attracted Horsemen: There is to be a trotting meet at the new mile track at Libertyville that is attracting many Janesville horsemen.

STATE FAIR HAS GOOD EXHIBITS

Greatest Fair Ever Held in Wisconsin—Imperial Band There Yesterday.

Grant Fisher is in charge of the sheep exhibit at the state fair. Yesterday he appeared in the new role of pacifier in a wrangle which arose in his department between Sheep headers, who thought they were not being treated just right. It was only by prompt action of Mr. Fisher who took the law in his own hands and straightened the differences immediately and the innocent sheep continued to exist in a peaceful mood.

LOOKED FOR ANY OLD THINGS AT ALL

Crazy Man at Evansville Searching for Lost Trunks and a Fifty Thousand Dollar Prize.

Evansville had a scare recently. A stranger alighted from a train and demanded of the station agent to see all the trunks in the station. He announced that he was in search of a lost trunk, not one trunk but many, and he must have them. He was not satisfied with merely viewing the trunks in the depot but wanted to search private residences and see if his trunks were concealed there. Incidentally he mentioned he was also looking for a fifty thousand dollar newspaper prize he claimed he had won and wanted to know if anybody in Evansville had seen it. His actions were so peculiar that he was brought down to Janesville and examined by Dr. Judd and Sutherland and committed to the state hospital for the insane at Madison. He gave his name as Thomas Curtis and his residence as the Dakotas.

IS RECOVERING FROM EFFECTS OF MASSACRE

Sassun Survivors Are Desperate, but They Are Attempting to Rebuild Their Burned Villages.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The American consul at Harput has reported to the State department that he visited Bitlis and is now in Mouah.

He says the district of Sassun is tranquil and pacified, the strategic points are garrisoned by infantry detachments, and permanent barracks have been erected. The survivors of the massacre are in a destitute condition, but are attempting to rebuild their burned villages. The consular corps at Bitlis estimates the number massacred and dead from exposure and hunger, etc., at 3,500. The American colony at Bitlis appears to be in no present or prospective danger. In the Mouah district insurgents have adopted a guerrilla form of warfare, ambuscading troops and bodies of Kurds.

Another massacre is daily expected by the Armenian population, which is in destitute circumstances. About 15,000 have lost everything and are starving, many being ill and wounded.

FARMERS WILL LOSE HEAVILY

Growing of Sumatra Tobacco Under Tents Not a Financial Success.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 8.—The appointment of a receiver for the United States Sumatra Tobacco Growing company is an indication that the raising of Sumatra tobacco under tents is not a financial success in the Connecticut valley. When the departure from the old way of growing tobacco was made in 1902 Connecticut farmers and investors invested heavily. It is now believed these people will lose hundreds of thousands of dollars. Hartford investors, who own at least $100,000 worth of stock in the company, have little hope of regaining their money.

ELECT SENATOR FOR LIFE TERM

T. W. Higginson Is Given Long Office by Phi Beta Kappa Chapter.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The council of the United chapter of Phi Beta Kappa convened in triennial session here. The following officers were elected for three years: President—John A. De Remer of Schenectady, N. Y. Vice president—E. B. Parsons of Williamstown, Mass. Secretary and treasurer—Oscar M. Voorhees of Highbridge, N. J. Thomas W. Higginson of Cambridge, Mass., was elected senator for life.

BURLINGTON BRIDGE BURNS

Three Spans of Structure Across Platte River Destroyed by Fire.

Grand Island, Neb., Sept. 8.—Three spans of the Burlington railroad bridge burned away before the fire, originating, it is supposed, from sparks from an engine, was extinguished. The bridge is nearly a mile long and spans the Platte. A passenger train due at the time stopped in time to avoid accident. This is the second fire on the bridge within six months. Traffic will be diverted until repairs are made.

Caste Among Ants.

In death, as in life, the ants are aristocrats and rigid observers of caste distinctions. For ants have their castes and it is characteristic that the poor apirls and other slaves captured in war are buried, not with their masters, but near the back fence, among the burdocks and ragweeds, the potter's field of the ants' city of the dead.

GRANT FISHER AS A PACIFIER NEXT

Janesville Man in Charge of Sheep Exhibits, Settles Difficulties Quietly.

Janesville people who have visited the state fair announce that it is the best that has ever been held in the state. This makes good the statement of Grant Fisher some time ago, that the coming fair was to be the "best ever." Yesterday the Imperial band was one of the attractions and this is a direct honor to Janesville and to the band. Dan Patch creates considerable excitement by his daily appearances and while the rain yesterday marred what would have been the biggest day of the week, still there were so many attractions to see that the racing was lost sight of and will be held today.

FUNERAL SERVICES; LATE SAM WINTERS

Were Held at Orangeville Yesterday—Was Shot in Abdomen at Lincoln, Nebraska.

The funeral of the late Samuel Winters who was accidentally shot in the abdomen at Lincoln, Neb., Saturday morning and whose death occurred on the following Sunday, was held at Orangeville, near Monroe, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Winters and four children left Janesville Tuesday for Monroe where they staid with Mrs. M. E. Baltzer, a sister of the bereaved wife. Before going to Lincoln Mr. Winters resided in Janesville for a time and his wife and children have since made this city their home. He was thirty-four years of age.

Imperial Band Returned: The Imperial band returned home this morning from the state fair where they furnished music yesterday.

To Entertain: The Misses Harriet McKenney and Keta Kimball have issued invitations for a card party to be given at the home of the former next Tuesday afternoon.

Sporting Doings of The Hour

Artful's Victory In the Futurity—Holcombe Ward, the New National Tennis Champion. Major Delmar Central Trotting Figure.

The victory of Hermann B. Duryea's brown filly Artful in the second Futurity at Sheepshead Bay, New York, was one of the sensations of the year on the running turf.

Artful was not considered to have a chance to win except by the few people associated with the Duryea stable.

The betting centered chiefly on James H. Keene's Synnott, which closed a heavy odds on favorite.

In the stretch, however, Artful sprang away from the field like a frightened deer from cover and won by fully five lengths, a sensational margin when the merits of the other contending two-year-olds are considered.

Artful was ridden by that clever jockey, Hildebrand, whose fame extends from ocean to ocean.

Artful should prove the leading three-year-old of next season, for in her veins flows the blood of the great Hambur.

Hambur's get are noted as gradual developers and long stayers. Therefore Artful should prove a formidable contender in the turf classics of next year.

Artful was formerly the property of the late W. C. Whitney, and after his death the swift filly was sold, together with many other horses, to Mr. Duryea.

Holcombe Ward, the new tennis champion of the United States, is a native of Janesville.

The first race for this cup two years ago was won by Mr. Smathers with Lord Derby, defeating Mr. Billings' candidate, The Monk. Last fall Mr. Billings won the second race in the series, driving Lou Dillon, Mr. Smathers being defeated with Major Delmar.

Now, with Lou Dillon not up to her last year's form and Major Delmar clearly better than he was last season, it looks as if the New York amateur may triumph in the final race and secure the coveted cup.

It is true that Lou Dillon may regain her last season's form, but even if she does Major Delmar seems to be in shape to give her a race vastly different from the one he put up last year.

The black stallion Metellus, 2:11, by Mambrino King, that was raised by John Benstead of Buffalo and sold by him to N. W. Hublinger, the New Haven turfman, for $12,000, is now in the stable of the Buffalo trainer, W. J. Andrews.

Soon after passing into Mr. Hublinger's possession Metellus began developing erratic notions, and no trainer that has since had him has been able to make any good use of the stallion's great speed and gameness.

Last year Ed Geers had the horse, but he was not able to get in touch with him, and he sent him home before the season was far advanced. The Kentucky trainer, John Hussey, who turned the horse over to Mr. Andrews a few days ago, has got along better with him than any one else that has tried, but even he could not get him to race as he can race if he wants to.

Hussey, who has some futurity candidates in training, did not want to follow the grand circuit this year, and in casting about for some one to take Metellus, Mr. Hublinger, attracted by Andrews' success in inducing the erratic pacer mare Cherry Lass to race kindly, made arrangements with him to take Metellus into his stable.

A friend in this city Mr. Andrews has stated that he hopes to gain the good will of the Mambrino King stallion and is further of the opinion that if he does he will have something to say about the division of the money in some of the purses for 2:10 trotters to be decided later in the season.

No trainer has had more pronounced success with horses of this kind than

Andrews has, and it is more than likely that he will get Metellus to racing kindly before the season is over.

The California mare Sweet Marie, by McKinney, keeps on winning races, and she now heads all other big money winning trotters of the year by a long way. Her capture of both the $10,000 purses at New York gave her a lead that will be hard for any other trotter to overcome. Her winnings now amount to $12,900 for the season, and she has several rich engagements yet to fill. In a race at Brighton Beach she trotted a record of 2:03 1/4, a record that has been beaten in a race by just one trotter this year, and that one Dr. Strong when he trotted in 2:08 at Buffalo. Stanley Dillon, 2:11 1/4, Ed Geers' bay gelding, stands second in the list of money winning trotters, with $7,600 to his credit. The heaviest winners among the pacers are Gallagher, 2:03 1/4; John M., 2:04 1/4; and Baron Grattan, 2:04 1/4. Gallagher has won $6,400, John M. $5,275 and Baron Grattan $3,225.

The fastest racing stoop in the sixty foot class in eastern waters is Henry F. Appelt's Westmore, which flies the burgee of the New York Yacht club.

The Westmore has won upward of a dozen races this far, and no boat of her size seems to have even the slightest chance of defeating her.

The Westmore was built by George Lawler & Son at South Boston in 1902. She is constructed of steel and bronze and is rated as one of the fastest vessels of her type afloat in any waters.

This is her third season of racing. On the cruise of the New York Yacht club last year she won in Class II, on July 20, on the run from New London, Conn., to Newport. She also won in the mixed class, beating the yawl Vigilant on the run from Vineyard Haven, Mass., to Newport. This season she won the Bennett cup, also the special prize for sloops at the regatta of the New York Yacht club. Later she won in the regatta of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht club, and again in the New Rochelle (N. Y.) Yacht club race. She won five races in the annual regatta of the Larchmont (N. Y.) Yacht club held recently.

She also won in the mixed class, beating the yawl Vigilant on the run from Vineyard Haven, Mass., to Newport. This season she won the Bennett cup, also the special prize for sloops at the regatta of the New York Yacht club. Later she won in the regatta of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht club, and again in the New Rochelle (N. Y.) Yacht club race. She won five races in the annual regatta of the Larchmont (N. Y.) Yacht club held recently.

The fastest racing stoop in the sixty foot class in eastern waters is Henry F. Appelt's Westmore, which flies the burgee of the New York Yacht club.

The Westmore has won upward of a dozen races this far, and no boat of her size seems to have even the slightest chance of defeating her.

The Westmore was built by George Lawler & Son at South Boston in 1902. She is constructed of steel and bronze and is rated as one of the fastest vessels of her type afloat in any waters.

This is her third season of racing. On the cruise of the New York Yacht club last year she won in Class II, on July 20, on the run from New London, Conn., to Newport. She also won in the mixed class, beating the yawl Vigilant on the run from Vineyard Haven, Mass., to Newport. This season she won the Bennett cup, also the special prize for sloops at the regatta of the New York Yacht club. The first race for this cup two years ago was won by Mr. Smathers with Lord Derby, defeating Mr. Billings' candidate, The Monk. Last fall Mr. Billings won the second race in the series, driving Lou Dillon, Mr. Smathers being defeated with Major Delmar.

Now, with Lou Dillon not up to her last year's form and Major Delmar clearly better than he was last season, it looks as if the New York amateur may triumph in the final race and secure the coveted cup.

It is true that Lou Dillon may regain her last season's form, but even if she does Major Delmar seems to be in shape to give her a race vastly different from the one he put up last year.

The black stallion Metellus, 2:11, by Mambrino King, that was raised by John Benstead of Buffalo and sold by him to N. W. Hublinger, the New Haven turfman, for $12,000, is now in the stable of the Buffalo trainer, W. J. Andrews.

Soon after passing into Mr. Hublinger's possession Metellus began developing erratic notions, and no trainer that has since had him has been able to make any good use of the stallion's great speed and gameness.

Last year Ed Geers had the horse, but he was not able to get in touch with him, and he sent him home before the season was far advanced. The Kentucky trainer, John Hussey, who turned the horse over to Mr. Andrews a few days ago, has got along better with him than any one else that has tried, but even he could not get him to race as he can race if he wants to.

Hussey, who has some futurity candidates in training, did not want to follow the grand circuit this year, and in casting about for some one to take Metellus, Mr. Hublinger, attracted by Andrews' success in inducing the erratic pacer mare Cherry Lass to race kindly, made arrangements with him to take Metellus into his stable.

A friend in this city Mr. Andrews has stated that he hopes to gain the good will of the Mambrino King stallion and is further of the opinion that if he does he will have something to say about the division of the money in some of the purses for 2:10 trotters to be decided later in the season.

No trainer has had more pronounced success with horses of this kind than

Andrews has, and it is more than likely that he will get Metellus to racing kindly before the season is over.

The California mare Sweet Marie, by McKinney, keeps on winning races, and she now heads all other big money winning trotters of the year by a long way. Her capture of both the $10,000 purses at New York gave her a lead that will be hard for any other trotter to overcome. Her winnings now amount to $12,900 for the season, and she has several rich engagements yet to fill. In a race at Brighton Beach she trotted a record of 2:03 1/4, a record that has been beaten in a race by just one trotter this year, and that one Dr. Strong when he trotted in 2:08 at Buffalo. Stanley Dillon, 2:11 1/4, Ed Geers' bay gelding, stands second in the list of money winning trotters, with $7,600 to his credit. The heaviest winners among the pacers are Gallagher, 2:03 1/4; John M., 2:04 1/4; and Baron Grattan, 2:04 1/4. Gallagher has won $6,400, John M. $5,275 and Baron Grattan $3,225.

LITTLE FRANCE

A ROMANCE OF THE DAYS WHEN "THE GREAT LORD HAWKE" WAS KING OF THE SEA

BY CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of "Commodore Paul Jones," "Reuben James," "For the Freedom of the Sea," etc.

Copyright, 1901, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Because there is an English officer wounded and a prisoner in my house, who has learned by chance of Monsieur de Vitre's predicament and who vows that he is innocent; that he did not pilot the ships; that he refused to do so even at the peril of his life, and that he had been held a close prisoner on the English ships since his capture."

"Dr. Arnoux dressed the young Englishman's wounds. He is a captain in the English navy. When he recovered consciousness I mentioned Monsieur de Vitre's predicament, and he insisted that I must come to tell you this story, and if you doubted it I was to ask you to send an officer to question him."

"Why came he not himself, then?" "He is too severely wounded, sir, and the doctor forbade him to move."

"Be seated, mademoiselle. Let us withdraw, gentlemen, and consider this communication for a moment," said the governor, after reflecting deeply, for a short time.

The Chevalier de Ramesay and his officers stepped to the other end of the apartment and intently consulted together, leaving Anne standing near de Vitre and his guards.

"O mademoiselle," cried de Vitre to her, addressing her despite the presence of the soldiers, "this is a public place in which to address you, but I stand in the shadow of death and I must needs take any opportunity which fate provides me. You have long known of my devotion to you. I have not disguised it nor do I wish to make further protestations to you. I only want to thank you, as a man dying, for the brave stand you have taken in attempting to save not only my life, but what is dearer to me—my honor. Thank Capt. Grafton, too, for his good words, though I feel they will be useless. The evidence against me is strong. This cursed uniform is the last straw. Rankling under the defeat of the morning, and with the certainty of surrender before them, they are too bitter to weigh well what they are doing. They want a scapegoat, and here is one ready to hand. Mademoiselle, one last favor. It means but little perhaps to you but much to me. I cannot go to you. Will you not reach hither your hand?"

"They must not kill you, Monsieur de Vitre! 'Is most unjust!' cried the girl piteously, stepping over to him. 'As for my hand—' She stretched it out, and, though he was bound and tied, nothing could have exceeded the courtly grace with which he bent over it and pressed a long kiss upon it. She held it tightly against his lips. 'There is my hand, monsieur!' she exclaimed, as the soldiers withdrew a little, out of consideration for her evident grief. 'I would that my heart went with it!'"

"Monsieur de Vitre, mademoiselle," said the governor, returning to his seat, "we have carefully considered the testimony of Mademoiselle de Rohan and are of the opinion that it is not sufficiently important to cause us to delay the execution. I fear that a few days may see the English in possession of the town, and that, of course, means that you, sir, would escape all punishment. As for the testimony of the English officer, he is in honor bound to extricate his ally from his predicament, and we question—"

"Who questions the word of Capt. Philip Grafton?" cried a stern voice, as a strangely ill-assorted pair entered the hall. One of the two was a small slender man, only partially clothed, whose face was ghastly pale and who held his left hand pressed against his right shoulder. He would have fallen to the floor but that he was supported by the encircling arm of a huge old man in the livery of the Rohans. The two were Philip and Jean-Renaud.

"Grafton!" cried de Vitre. "Thank God, you have come!"

"Jean-Renaud," exclaimed Anne, "how dared you to bring this gentleman here! Against the doctor's orders and mine! His life—"

"Peace, mademoiselle!" interrupted Grafton. "I came here because I feared what has happened, that they would not accept your testimony. Your servant but obeyed my orders, he had no choice!"

"But your life, monsieur!" said Anne.

"I peril it gladly to save the honor of a brave gentleman, though an enemy. Monsieur le Gouverneur, you are about to execute this gentleman?" There was a dead silence in the room.

"It is true," answered Mademoiselle de Rohan.

"It must not go on!" cried Grafton. "I swear to you on my honor as an English gentleman that Monsieur de Vitre is innocent! He is no traitor; on the contrary, he deserves your highest commendation. He refused to pilot the ships in, even though, by the orders of the admiral, he was placed on the rail of the ship with a rope flung around his neck, and men awaited the signal to hang him."

Murmurs rose from the officers in the hall.

"Why was he not hanged, then, Sir Englishman?" asked the governor.

"Because an English officer interfered, one who hated to see a brave man sacrificed, and through his influence the general, who was his friend, and the admiral, who is his captain, he saved Monsieur de Vitre's life."

"Do you know this to be a fact, monsieur?"

"I do, monsieur."

"Who was the officer that saved his life?"

"The truth in the answer was patent in every line of the blood-stained figure. There was a burst of applause from the officers in the room as his words carried conviction to their hearts."

"Who piloted the ships, then?"

"Some fishermen, and some of us came up the river without a pilot."

"But this uniform?"

"I have no doubt that Monsieur de Vitre can explain that. I know that last night he was held a close prisoner on the Sutherland."

"Monsieur, forgive the question. I wish to be quite certain. You are not saying this to save an ally?"

"Sir, I have given you my word of honor, the word of an officer of the line. As God is my judge, I have told the truth! Hold Monsieur de Vitre until you can communicate with Admiral Saunders or Gen. Townshend. Send out a special flag now, and if the facts be not as I have stated I will answer for them with my own life. You hold me prisoner, sir. I am alone in your power. I would stake anything upon de Vitre's honor. Indeed—he turned pale and caught at his breast again where the red stains showed under his hand—I believe that I have staked my life for—"

He stopped, his glance wavered toward Anne.

"For you—your lover—mademoiselle!"

He swayed back and forth and fell heavily to the floor at her feet.

"Release Monsieur de Vitre!" cried de Ramesay.

Anno de Rohan instantly sank to the floor and knelt by the prostrate form of the English captain.

"Ah, mon Dieu!" she cried. "He is dying!"

There was a look on her face, in her eyes, for which de Vitre would have given all he possessed. As the soldiers unbound him, he sprang to her side.

"You love him!" he cried. "You love him!"

CHAPTER XV.

"THOU SHALT NOT COVET."

ANNE DE ROHAN had admitted to herself as she had watched Grafton before he recovered consciousness that she loved him. If there had been any doubt in her mind of the permanence of her feelings of bygone days and their development from the childish devotion to the deep passionate love which filled her soul, the tell-tale kiss she had pressed upon his forehead when she thought him dying would have undeceived her. And she realized it more entirely at that moment when she saw him lying white and still at her feet in the hall. That something of her feeling had expressed itself in her looks she did not doubt.

PRESSED A LONG KISS UPON IT.

But it is one thing to admit a fact in the secret recesses of one's own consciousness, or even to look one's feelings, and another to have it proclaimed on the housetops. She bitterly resented de Vitre's impulsive allegation, and that it was true but enhanced her indignation against him and against herself. How could she, a de Rohan, love this commoner of America? How could she, a French woman, bestow her affection upon an enemy? How could she give her heart to a man who wore another woman's picture above his own? Everything stood in the way of any future relationship whatever between them.

And yet how magnificently he had come to the rescue of de Vitre! How nobly he had stood forth in the hall a moment since! O God, it was true! She had betrayed herself; the world would know that she had given away her love to this English officer—an enemy. She felt and saw the pointing fingers of her society; she heard the words "Traffress! Traffress!" in the air. She would not, she could not!

Yet, how he had looked at her when he clutched her dress with that fateful question, "Are you in love with Monsieur de Vitre?" She was afraid of herself. If he should recognize her and plead with her could she resist him? No, she feared not she was sure she could not. She loved him too well to do so. Of that point she was absolutely certain, and of another fact consequent upon the first, as well. She did not love Denis de Vitre. She admitted him—but love, no. And yet here was a safeguard. Betrothed to him she could better struggle against the pleadings of her heart. She did not yet realize what her long dormant feelings toward Philip would be, or how powerful a hold he was to have upon her.

"Monsieur de Vitre," she exclaimed, clearly enough to be heard by all the room, "you forget yourself! How could I love this stranger, an enemy of France? You are not yourself; these trials have bewildered you, and I have but one answer to your charge. You have asked me again and again to—to—in short, monsieur, are you still—"

"Mademoiselle de Rohan!" cried de Vitre, clasping her hand, "is it—will you—"

"Monsieur, I entreat you, I regard you, I admire you. I am willing, with the consent of my grandfather the marquis—to be—"

"Monsieur de Ramesay," cried de Vitre, turning to the little group, who had been regarding the couple intently, "Mademoiselle de Rohan makes me the happiest of men! She deigns to honor me by promising me her hand."

"Look to your English friend, Monsieur de Vitre," promptly answered the governor, "and quickly!"

"Maledictions upon me!" cried de Vitre, kneeling beside the two servants.

"A surgeon, quick!"

The physician, who had been previously summoned, was speedily forthcoming, and under his ministrations the flow of blood was stanchied and Grafton presently opened his eyes again.

"My friend," cried de Vitre, as Grafton recovered consciousness, "what can I say? What can I do to repay you? On the ship yonder you saved my life. A moment since, in this hall, you saved my honor, and I believe it is to you I owe my greatest happiness."

"And what is that?" whispered Grafton.

"Mademoiselle has consented to do me the honor of becoming my wife."

"Ah!" exclaimed Grafton, as if stricken again.

"What is it, what is it?" cried the Frenchman, "what can I do?"

"You might have let me die, de Vitre. But there, 'tis nothing. Take me hence."

"Where will you be taken, monsieur?" asked the governor.

"He shall go back to my house," interrupted Anne, "whence he came. And you, Monsieur de Vitre, will accompany—"

"Your pardon, mademoiselle," said de Ramesay, "I believe Monsieur de Vitre to be innocent of all the charges that have been made against him, but my duty compels me to detain him in the castle until I can communicate with the English. One of my aides will accompany you home."

"Tis useless, sir. I have here a faithful guard. If you will have some of your soldiers bring a litter to carry Monsieur Grafton, it will be enough."

"Watch over him well, mademoiselle!" cried de Vitre, as the soldiers bore him from the room. "I owe him much—everything!"

"Trust me, monsieur," replied the young girl, "Monsieur le Gouverneur, Lieutenant de Vitre, gentlemen, I bid you adieu!"

With a sweeping courtesy she left the room.

Attended by Josette and guarded by Jean-Renaud, with brimming eyes and a leaden heart in her bosom, she walked by the litter as the soldiers bore it through the street. With downcast head she moved, yet no movement of her wounded charge escaped her. Grafton lay on the stretcher with his eyes closed. Once, as the bearers stumbled, he opened them with a sharp exclamation of pain. Instantly she bent over him. As her gaze fell upon his face he slowly turned his head away, as if the sight were too much for him and he could not bear to look upon her.

"Are you in pain, monsieur?"

"Ah, Mademoiselle de Couediel!" he answered, "such pain as I trust you may never know."

"Why did you turn your head from me?"

"Mademoiselle," he answered softly, still not looking at her, "I am thinking of some pregnant words in an old book which I had read to me when I was a child."

"And those words, monsieur?"

"Thou shalt not covet," he whispered. "I understand—everything, monsieur."

"Monsieur de Vitre," said the governor, "if you give me your parole you may have the freedom of the chateau. I congratulate you first upon your acquittal, and more, monsieur, upon the prize you have gained. Faith, sir, yours is like to be the one victory of the arms of France!"

CHAPTER XVI.

RECOGNITION.

GRAFTON still lay on the great bed in the upper chamber, although it was the evening after the day of the battle and the visit to the chateau. He had been promptly put there again by the faithful Jean-Renaud when his bearers had reached the house, and after a quiet night and a long day of perfect rest he felt much better. Dr. Arnoux, who had called to see him in the morning, had reproached him severely for his excursion of the day before. Although the surgeon had been filled with generous admiration at the devotion and courage Grafton had exhibited in behalf of de Vitre in the chateau, he had strictly forbidden him to rise again from the bed for some time at least. With the remembrance of his unfortunate collapse in the chateau at the trial of de Vitre, the Englishman was inclined to heed his advice. Indeed, he could do no less, since his uniform, as a further preventive, had been taken away by Jean-Renaud under the orders of Mademoiselle de Rohan.

The tedious of the day had been relieved by two short visits from the mistress of the household. Had she consulted her inclination only, she would not have left him for a moment, but she did not dare trust herself long in his presence. Yet bare hospitality, the consideration due a sick man whom fate had thrown upon her hands, constrained her at least to inquire as to his health and to supervise in person the meager arrangements which the straitened circumstances necessitated by the rigorous siege of Quebec permitted her to make for his comfort.

Her visits had been brief, however, and while they lasted she had deliberately stood in the shadow of the bed-curtains, so that no opportunity for a fair look upon her face had been vouchsafed him—a thing he was thirsting for and yet which he felt utterly unable to bring about. Indeed, his thoughts had been so busy with her personality and her image, that the time, which might have dragged as only time can linger, leaden-footed in the sick chamber, had passed before he noticed it.

Yet he was very dissatisfied with the situation. There was something about the young demure which moved him powerfully, something he could not explain. The thought of her betrothal to de Vitre filled him with a certain jealous dismay—he could not exactly tell why. It was hardly possible he could be in love with her himself, a girl he had seen but a day since! He seemed to have known, or to have met her before, though. How was it? De Couediel! And yet—

But what could he do? Nothing. He was master of himself now—in the full possession of his faculties, with no excuse of weakness, wounds, or fever, that is—and, there could be no possible reason for so personal an appeal to her as he had made when in fevered confusion he had asked her if she loved de Vitre.

During the day he was attended by a strange servant, and saw neither Jean-Renaud nor Josette, either of whom might have enlightened him had not both been kept from him by the orders of their mistress. The conversation between the two, therefore, on the occasion of these two visits was necessarily brief; confined on her part to inquiries as to his well-being, his needs, and desires, and upon his part to expressions of gratitude for her kindness, and earnest deprecations of the trouble he was giving her and her household.

As for her, every time she approached him she longed to declare herself. With the passionate abandon of a French woman who loved literally for the first time, who found herself in the actual presence of a long-cherished ideal, before a realization of her girlish and maidenly dreams, she would fain have thrown herself upon his breast—into his arms. She longed to gather him to her heart and lavish upon him those treasures of affection which all the gallantry, courage and devotion of de Vitre could not evoke. And all this in the face of the keen jealousy she suffered over the locked lips, the restraint, the self-control, in spite of the precautions she took to prevent it, that he had not recognized her—which was unreasonable but essentially feminine.

But she had controlled herself like an American. The marquis himself could not have been more coolly and coldly polite than she. As for Grafton, he had, not yet, to use his own expression, "got his bearings." Never in his life had he been so moved by the presence of a woman as during the last two days. He could hardly reason about it clearly in his present condition. But at last he thought that the explanation of this infatuation must lie in his weakness and her beauty, for with singular faculty he had not succeeded in discovering any other reason for his interest.

In the first place, owing to the precautions she had taken, he had not yet had that clear, full sight of the girl for which he longed. She had always been in a half light, or concealed in some shadow, or with face turned away, when she had been with him. He might have looked upon her carefully in the hall of the Chateau St. Louis, but his mind was bent upon other things then, and his physical weakness and the resulting collapse had possibly impaired his judgment as well as his vision.

Besides all this, she had informed him that her name was de Couediel, which appellation told him nothing, but had actually thrown him entirely on the wrong track. By no possibility could he have imagined that the Countess de Rohan, whom he had left a child a few years before in the Chateau de Josselin in Brittany, would be found now inside the walls of Quebec in America.

Josette he had scarcely seen since he was wounded, and he paid no attention to her anyway in the presence of Anne—one does not look at the moon when the sun is by. The same might be said of Jean-Renaud. The sergeant had not impressed himself very deeply upon Grafton's consciousness when he had been held a prisoner at the chateau, and the changed uniform and dress, together with the lapse of time, had prevented his being recognized. Anne had been very careful not to call the names of her two servants in his presence after she had recognized him, and during the day he had not seen either of them. Luck, too, was against him. Indeed, how could he have recognized in this glorious specimen of glowing womanhood, the thin, undeveloped little girl of other days?

SEEDING BY MACHINERY.

Branch of the Raisin Industry That Is Young But Already Very Vigorous.

Sixty per cent. of the California grape crop is turned into seeded raisins, the output of one company alone for the year 1903 being 5,500 carloads. In Fresno alone, where most of the seeding is done, there are seven large plants for the handling of the product, employing 1,500 persons. And yet the seeded raisin industry is only 12 years old. This was told by H. A. Craft, who describes the seeding machinery in an article contributed to the Home Science Magazine. Says this writer:

"The seeding is done entirely by machinery. The original raisin seeding machine was a New York invention; but it has been improved upon by California inventors, until now it does its work with almost absolute thoroughness. And it is an interesting fact that, in the process of seeding now in vogue, the raisin is not touched by human hands from the time that it arrives from the packing house until it is confined in its one-pound carton ready for shipment to the market."

"Be it understood that the entire process of converting the grape into a raisin is not performed at the seeding plants. The preliminary work is done at the packing houses, situated all throughout the vineyards. At the packing houses the raisins are dried, stemmed, as far as the larger stems are concerned, graded and packed in rough boxes for shipment to the seeding plants. From outside points these boxed raisins are shipped to the seeding plants by the railroad."

"At the seeding plants the raisins are dumped from these rough boxes, and are then 'processed,' to use a technical term, preparatory to seeding. First the raisins are subjected to a dry temperature of 140 degrees F., after which they are chilled; and after being subjected to the latter process, they become as hard and dry as a bean. Then they are in shape to go through the final process of stemming, which takes off the short stem remaining on the raisin when it comes from the packing houses. The raisins are then put through a rubbing machine, which has the effect to remove the short stem mentioned and leave the raisin in its simple form."

"Then the raisin is subjected to a moist heat of 130 degrees F., which has the effect of making them soft and pliable. Then it is sent on to the seeding machine, where it passes between a pair of pure rubber rolls, and is then impaled upon a roll of small saws, which presses the seed out through the surface of the raisin. The saw roll, with the raisin thus impaled, revolves and passes over a flicking device, which whisks off the seed, leaving the raisin still impaled on the saw roll. The saw roll, still revolving, passes around until the seeded raisin strikes a series of fingers, which frees the raisin from the roll. The raisins then pass through a system of chutes, and are packed by girls in one-pound cartons."

"The capacity of the plant at Fresno is 405 tons per day. One house is used solely for 'processing' the raisins, and is a frame structure 150x180 feet on the ground and three stories high. This is connected with another, in which the seeding and packing are done, the raisins being conveyed from one to the other by an underground conveyor 280 feet long, which passes beneath a street.

NERVOUSNESS UNKNOWN.

Japanese Women Have None of the Attacks Common to American Sisters.

The women of Japan, in contrast to their occidental sisters, have long been noted for their perfect poise and self-possession. Their placidity under what would ordinarily be considered trying circumstances has surprised American tourists. Patent medicines guaranteed to cure nervousness in its many forms have little sale in Japan. The meaning of the term, "nervous prostration," is unknown. Japanese physicians are rarely rich, says a London paper.

An explanation of this happy state of affairs has been made by a returned traveler. "To begin with," says he, "there is never any change in fashions, so the Japanese woman has no worries at all on that score. Then, housekeeping is greatly simplified, so the Japanese housekeeper is hurt by none of the jars and frets that rag the nerves and prematurely age of her western sister. The Japanese house has no draperies, no dust traps in the shape of superfluous ornaments. People all put off their shoes on entering the house, so no mud or dirt are brought in. Japanese women have no heartburnings over euchre prizes and 'bridge' stakes. They never have to compose club papers on subjects concerning which they know nothing. They never sit up nights planning how they may outshine their rivals in dress at some social affair. They do not bother their brains with schemes for marrying their daughters to rich foreigners. They never have to give eight-course dinners with two-course pocketbooks. They live simple, happy, peaceful, domestic lives, and live them long."

While we should beseech to see American women restrict their lives to the narrow sphere of the Japanese, there is no doubt that three-fourths of their nervous worry is caused by "trying to do too much." Simplicity is the keynote of sanity and health, and American men as well as women may well profit by the example of the happy Japanese.

BADGER DRUG CO.

Explain Why Paracamp is a Safe Speedy, Certain Cure.

It is SAFE—Because Paracamp is prepared only from high-grade refined camphor, the remedy of our grandmothers, combined with pure, soothing essential oils, and being an external remedy cannot in any way injure the delicate tissues lining your stomach or slatter or ruin your nervous system like many strong drastic internal remedies for the relief of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Catarrh, Eczema and Piles.

It is SPEEDY—Because when applied it opens the pores of the skin promptly and penetrates directly to the seat of the pain, whether in the Muscles, Joints or Blisters and Blisters.

It is CERTAIN—Because when it reaches the seat of the ailment it immediately soothes the aching, inflamed parts, removes the congestion and draws out all fever, soreness and inflammation by inducing sweating; it destroys the germs and sweats out the disease. This is the only safe and sure way.

We do not hesitate to guarantee Paracamp to cure Rheumatism, Swelling, Neuralgia, Catarrh, Throat Troubles, Eczema, Itch and Itching or Bleeding Piles, because many of our Customers report to us daily that they have been cured by its use and furthermore because we know that Paracamp will do exactly what the manufacturers claim for it. Paracamp is a clean, safe, household remedy which every family needs every day in the year. It is truly a First Aid to the injured and should be kept in every home. If you have not used it try Paracamp today on our guarantee to return money if it fails to do what we claim for it.—The Paracamp Company, Louisville, Ky., U. S. A.

In view of the fact that in two weeks' time I conducted a closing sale of pianos and musical merchandise, in which I disposed of my entire stock of pianos and a greater part of my other musical goods, together with nearly a thousand copies of sheet music, and that the entire sale was conducted without any personal solicitation and entirely through advertising placed exclusively in the Gazette, I can and do recommend the Gazette and their methods of advertising and cheerfully testify as to its efficiency in bringing business.

FATAL WRECK AT TISKILWA

THREE ARE KILLED OUTRIGHT

From Twenty to Twenty-five Persons
Are Injured in Collision, Which Is Caused by Freight Train Breaking in Two.

Tiskilwa, Ill., Sept. 8.—At least three persons are dead and from twenty to twenty-five injured as the result of the wrecking of the Kansas City special, a fast train on the Rock Island road, here Wednesday night.

Following is the list of dead:—
Donaldson, supposed to be from Chicago. He was acting as a substitute for the regular express messenger.

Unknown Italian, died on the way to the Tiskilwa hotel.

Unknown man, about 35 years old, bound for Taylor, Ia., died on train on which he was being taken to hotel in La Salle, Ill.

The number of dead is likely to be increased.

Many Are Injured.

There are a dozen injured passengers in this city, some of them at the depot and some at the hotel, whence they were taken in ambulances.

Baggageman McClure, whose home is in South Chicago, is known to be badly injured, but hopes are entertained that he will recover.

Several of those hurt did not sustain injuries serious enough to necessitate removal to a hospital, and they will be able to continue their journey.

Crashes into Freight.

The wreck was caused by a peculiar accident. On the eastbound track a freight train was howling along at a good gait passing through this place.

Meantime the fast passenger train, which was behind time and was making sixty-seven miles an hour, was nearing this city on the westbound track.

As the trains were nearing each other, in some way not yet ascertained, the freight train broke in two. The two sections of the freight came together again almost immediately with a crash and at once the freight cars were piled up in a promiscuous mass, several of the box cars completely covering the track on which the passenger train was running.

Fast Train Is Ditched.

Engineer Cropper of the fast train only had time to see that a wreck was unavoidable—he had no time to prevent.

When the fast running engine hit the wreck it turned over completely and landed in a ditch.

The baggage car, smoker and chair car were converted into kindling wood, and the fact that all the occupants of these cars were not killed seems a miracle.

The three sleeping cars attached to the train remained on the track, and their occupants, aside from being badly shaken up, were not injured.

Engineer Cropper and his fireman, Hannan, when they saw nothing could be done to prevent a collision, jumped from the cab and escaped practically unhurt.

EIGHT-YEAR-OLD GIRL ADMITS MANY CRIMES

Martha Marshfield Says That with Two Child Companions She Has Been Robbing Residences.

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 8.—Martha Marshfield, an 8-year-old girl, has been arrested on a charge of stealing two rings from the residence of Levan Stevens in this city, and the story told by the girl to the police breaks all records of crime. She declares she has associated with two girls of similar age, and that the trio went from house to house in the fashionable district of the city and secured rings and jewelry.

The little girl said she had entered the houses and informed the women that her mother and father were dead, and had asked for food, and that while waiting for food she would ransack the room.

The police claim the parents of the child are to blame, and that she is a degenerate. The child has many of the ways of a hardened criminal. She will probably be held to the circuit court for trial.

GREAT WAVES DAMAGE WHARVES ALONG OCEAN

Southern Coast of California Is Washed by Huge Billows, the Result of Volcanic Action.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 8.—From many points along the southern coast Wednesday came reports of damage by great billows which are rolling in from the sea, occasioned by some peculiar phenomenon, possibly a volcanic disturbance far out in the ocean. While there is scarcely a capful of wind, enormous waves, in some instances forty feet high, roll ceaselessly against the shores.

Word comes that the wharf at Huene is doomed to total destruction. At Terminal Island the sea has wrought considerable havoc, and hundreds of men are at work piling up sacks of sand to form breakwaters. Several cottages are inundated. At Long Beach and at Ocean Park the pleasure wharves have been much damaged and no one is permitted to go on them.

Just a Moment, Please!

Why not let The Royal Tailors of Chicago make your fall suit or overcoat? When delivery is made, there will also be delivered a direct guaranty covering the quality of goods, the style and fit of the garments and the workmanship.

And that guaranty is worth one hundred cents on the dollar to you. It means that you are to be satisfied with the garments when you get them—satisfied that they were made expressly for you, to your own measure—and it means that they will wear well, give you good service, and hold their shape as rightly-tailored garments should.

The cost of Royal tailoring is so low that you might almost think price was the first consideration. But it isn't. Value is first. Value-giving is at the basis of The Royal Tailors' success. The best for the money always—that is the Royal idea.

Customers of The Royal Tailors are invited to guess how many people will attend the World's Fair at St. Louis. They offer prizes consisting of ten Automobiles, to be given to the ten persons making the closest guesses. The cost of these Automobiles is $13,700. There are also eight cash prizes of $100 each, making the total value of the prizes $14,500. For every dollar you pay on an order for Royal tailoring you can make one guess; on a $15 suit you can make fifteen guesses, and on a $20 suit you can make twenty guesses, and so on—a guess for every dollar.

The Royal Tailors carry a million-dollar stock of woollens—something sure to please everybody; suits and overcoats for men and boys—ladies' man-tailored skirts and coats—all made strictly to measure at an actual proven cash saving of fully twenty-five per cent.

But the thing to do is to see the goods and get the prices. You can do that by calling on
